OnPay Appoints Katelyn Sullivan to Lead Partner Development

New Role Further Reinforces Company's Commitment to Accountants and Bookkeepers

ATLANTA – Oct. 29, 2019 – OnPay, the top-rated payroll provider for small and medium-sized businesses, today announced that it has hired Katelyn Sullivan, CPA. Sullivan joins OnPay to lead the company's efforts to meet the needs of accountants and bookkeepers and to expand partnerships around the U.S.

The addition of Sullivan underscores OnPay's commitment to empowering accounting and bookkeeping firms to successfully and scalably serve the payroll and HR needs of every potential client. Sullivan previously worked with Ernst & Young, where she focused on technology and process improvements and specialized in strategic function assessments and software implementation for businesses. She is a licensed CPA and has a master's in accounting from the University of Georgia.

"The OnPay Partner Program that launched last year makes it possible for firms to provide a higher level of service to all their business clients, regardless of their industry or size," said Mark McKee, president and COO of OnPay. "Katelyn is a dynamic leader who will reinforce our commitment to streamline payroll and HR services for accountants and bookkeepers."

Rated "Excellent" by PC Magazine, OnPay currently offers accountants and bookkeepers a full-service payroll, HR and benefits solution. Its intuitive dashboard and flexible permissions make it easy for accountants to play either an active or passive role in managing payroll, depending on the needs of specific clients. And OnPay offers extensive and customizable integrations with accounting software like QuickBooks and Xero.

"We're really in the perfect place right now," said Sullivan. "Many accountants and bookkeepers are ready to take on a larger, more strategic role with their clients, and I'm excited to use my experience helping accountants adopt new technology to show more firms what OnPay can do for them."

Since the launch of the OnPay Partner Program, the company became a Xero certified app partner, released a complete suite of HR tools and was named the exclusively endorsed payroll solution for American Dental Association members.
